Classification Information:

These products are controlled as defense articles for export from the United States under the authority of the US Department of State, United States Munitions List (USML) Category XIIc. US Government authorization is required for export from the United States to all destinations, whether for permanent or temporary export. For exports to Canada, please review section §126.5 Canadian Exemptions.

Permanent Export:

For a permanent export, consult the above website to obtain information on license determination and how to obtain a DSP5 permanent export license. The license process may take 60-90 days. The DSP5 must be lodged with U.S. Customs prior to export.

Temporary Export:

To temporarily export the above product(s), consult the above website for instructions on how to obtain a DSP73 temporary export licenses. Department of State temporary licenses are very specific to the purpose for export, country of destination, intended end user, intermediate consignees and intended end use. The physical license must be presented to U.S. Customs at both the time of export from the United States and again the time of import back into the United States. The process for obtaining a temporary license may also take 60-90 days.

Process/Export Documentation Required:

The following steps should be taken when exporting this system(s):

- Restricted Party Screening
- Export License (as determined above) – for temporary exports, present to U.S. Customs as noted above
- Create a Commercial Invoice: must include product description, quantity, value, destination control statements and proof of AES transaction (if applicable)
- Generate an AWB (unless hand-carried)
- File an AES (Automated Export System) record (unless exempt) – Additional information regarding AES filing requirements and exemptions to filing can be found on the US Customs website: <http://www.aesdirect.gov/> and the Census regulations website: <http://www.census.gov/foreign-trade/regulations/regs/flipper/index.html#toolsoftrade>
- Consider obtaining a carnet to ease the clearance process in and out of eligible countries. Consult <http://www.atacarnet.com/> for additional information. The carnet must be presented to Customs at port of export and import from/into the United States.
